Essay.

The gaming addiction is rapidly becoming more and more visible over time. Now days, it is hard to find a student who doesn't play computer games every single day. But what can this addiction cause and how can we help children to overcome it?

Firstly, while students are spending all of their free time playing computer they tend to forget about their school subjects and get bad grades at school. This happens because their ~~mind~~ minds are usually overflowed with everything about their favorite games leaving no space for important and useful information such as laws of physics, grammar rules and many others.

Secondly, it is common when gamers have lower social skills than their peers or may even have no social life at all. This happens because of their lack of communication. Instead of hanging out with friends they often choose to stay at home and play their favorite game one more time.

Finally, let's ~~discuss~~ name the ways to cure the addiction to gaming. One solution is to make computers forbidden to children. It is not the best one because then children may have no way to relax after a hard day. ^{the} Second solution is engaging children in other activities to help them find something new to do at their free time. I think this solution is the best because it is not harmful for anyone.

Gaming can cause problems but ~~it~~ ^{they} it can help children relax after a hard day ~~and they~~ while being treated normally.

Computer game addiction in Children.

Nowadays we have a lot of modern technologies, such as mobile phone, smart watches and computers. A lot of people have their personal computers. They use it to do some work, surf in internet^{sp} or playing computer games^{gr}. I'm going to write about harm of computer games in young age.

Many young people play computer games, spending most of the time next to computer. That is computer game addiction. This addiction causes bad marks, because someone plays so long, that he doesn't have time for doing homework. And if you are not doing homework - you won't get good marks. Also, if you spend all your free time playing computer games you won't have any social life, because you won't have any real friends. You can make online friends, but they won't be the one, who would help you. Also computer affects on your health, because the only sport you do is cyber sport.

But there is a way how you can overcome this addiction. You have to make a diary with tasks you should do during a day. With this diary you won't play so much, because you are going to know what you have to do - p

More and more young people spend most of their time playing computer games nowadays. How can we help children to overcome this addiction? st

To choose the correct decision and give them some advice, we need to point out the reasons of such addiction and behaviour.

The first major st reason is the lack of ~~attention from~~ ^{parents'} attention. People usually work a lot and forget st that their kids need attention and treatment too.

The second reason is shyness. Some kids think they are ugly or uncool for no reason, so they don't st communicate with ~~their~~ others and play computer games because it's the only comfortable way of spending time for them.

The third reason is ~~the~~ bullying. Some children are being pressed by their classmates, school mates and other surroundings, ~~so~~ ~~they~~ that's why they prefer to stay at home alone and play video games to replace normal communication.

All this leads to bad grades at school, lack of social life, ~~the~~ health troubles. ~~and~~ ~~the~~

~~After~~ After summarising all reasons of computer addiction, ~~we~~ we can conclude that all children must receive more attention from their parents. Youngers st won't have any reason and wish to ~~play~~ play computer games if st they spend all their free time playing computer games.

More and more young people spend most of their time playing computer games. How can we help children to ~~over~~ overcome this addiction?

Although computer games seem

There is a constantly increasing trend that attracts more and more children. This trend is computer games. Although they seem completely safe, there are many dangerous things that computer games include. ^{log} Most ~~pp~~ popular of them are bad grades, lack of social life and ^{log} communicating skills, health issues.

Bad grades might be the least dangerous and easiest to avoid since you only need to concentrate on school subjects and manage ~~your~~ your time. But for many young people it is hard and even nearly impossible. They are so addicted that computer games ^{gr} became a ^{gr} main priority and so grades don't st really mean much for them. In this case only other people can help an addicted gamer because he has certain issues with managing his whole life.

Being addicted to computer games also brings issues with ~~get~~ communicating outside virtual reality. Gamers don't need to talk to others ^f since they have a group of friends in computer. And they think there ~~is~~ is nothing wrong with it. We can help them by trying to become friends with these gamers. They are not bad but lost people. You might have many things in common.

Negative impact on our health is proved by scientists. Those are mental issues as well. Problems with eyes, legs, overweight are all the consequences of constant gaming. Intelligent and strict ~~to~~ managing of gaming time is the solution for all these problems.

Gamers are not bad people. They are just obsessed with computer games. We should unite our forces in order to fight ^{gr} this addiction.

Nowadays, with the computer introduction, a large group of young people has the serious problem - computer game addiction. Being among impressionable audience, they tend to exchange all their worries and problems for a digital world, where it ~~doesn't~~ ^{isn't} matter. I will provide the reasons and solutions to this problem, aiming to make a difference.

The most common ^{reason} ~~problem~~ for turning to videogames is problematic grades at school. Young people receive complaints regarding their questionable performance, so they would rather forget about it in a videogame round. The solution is fairly simple: make an educational videogame which combines dopamine gain from games and the educational aspect.

Another reason is social life. Young people tend to have problems with social life. Socialization is part of some videogames which might be the reason. My opinion is that schools should increase social interactions at school with the help of social games.

A big part of young audience also sees videogames as an after-school relaxation method. Considering the vast amount of post-school activities young people have, it is not surprising that video games are especially influential. School should adopt those post-school activities in their systems, decreasing the amount of stress young people will have.

All in all, the video game addiction problem can be fixed fairly easy. As mentioned before, the abrupt increase in ^{or} social interactions will minimise the addiction.
